The image features two distinct furniture handles against a light gray background. The upper handle is made of black metal, featuring a circular top plate with concentric rings, a central vertical stem, and a horizontal grip section with a diamond-patterned texture. The lower handle is made of brass, also featuring a horizontal grip section with a diamond-patterned texture, but it has a more rustic, aged appearance with visible wear and a different stem design.

Inset handles have traditionally been hard to install requiring a complex machining process to create a recess. The Tub range was designed to overcome this limitation by allowing a hole to be made right through the panel. The handle is easy to mount and the unique two part design automatically adjusts to any 16-21mm panel thickness. For full installation diagrams visit our handle website www.furniturehandles.net
